It has become clear that it would be helpful to us if we understood more about the workings of the Stanford Computer Forum. Carolyn Tajnai, Manager of the Forum, is considering scheduling a meeting of non-technical support staff (at least, those of us who answer phones) to help clarify the procedures of the Forum.

Since we get calls every day from people in industry who want to have some interaction with HPP, the following information relating to the Forum can be immediately useful.

The way in which the existence of the Forum most directly affects us is this:

Companies who join the Forum are offered special services as outlined in the Computer Forum Pamphlet (copy attached). When a company joins the Forum, a Stanford Faculty Member is designated as the "contact person" and a corresponding "contact person" is designated within the company. When a request comes from a member company, it should be referred directly to the Stanford contact. Often requests come in from people in the member companies who are not aware of their organization's membership in the Forum. It is useful to be able to tell them who is responsible for Forum liaison within their company.

I am including a list of all member companies. Those for which HPP people are responsible are highlighted. The names, addresses and phone numbers of the company liaison people are attached.

When individuals at Forum companies (other than those for which HPP people are responsible) call to initiate contact with HPP, please refer them to Carolyn Tajnai at 7-3550.
